Cooking by the Book

13 Worth Street

New York, NY 10013

Author Naomi Duguid will share stories of the culinary traditions of Burma from her new book "BURMA: Rivers of Flavor" (Artisan).

Dinner will feature a menu with recipes selected from the book. This is a rare opportunity to experience the culinary culture of this remote Southeast Asian country.

Members: $55.00 / Guests: $65.00

A copy of the book is included.

Co-chairs: Jan Hazard and Jeanne Voltz

Naomi Duguid's heralded cookbooks have always transcended the category to become "something larger and more important" (L.A. Times). Each in its own way is "a breakthrough book . . . a major contribution" (New York Times). And as Burma opens up after a half century of seclusion, who better than Duguid—the esteemed author of Hot Sour Salty Sweet—to introduce the country and its food and flavors.

Located at the crossroads between China, India, and the nations of Southeast Asia, Burma has long been a land that absorbed outside influences into its everyday life, from the Buddhist religion to foodstuffs like the potato. In the process, the people of the country now known as Myanmar have developed a rich, complex cuisine that makes inventive use of easily available ingredients to create exciting flavor combinations.

The best way to learn about an unfamiliar culture is through its food, and readers will be transfixed by the splendors of an ancient and wonderful country - untouched by the outside world for generations - whose simple recipes delight and satisfy.
